

Stories of Illness & Health

Sunday 26th October at 2:00 pm

Wolf Performance Hall
London Public Library (Central Branch)

How does the art of storytelling improve health care education and the experience of patient care?

How can health care workers, patients, and members of the greater public work together to produce compassionate approaches to patient-centred care?

Join our moderators, Dr. Shannon Arntfield and Dr. Jeff Nisker, to experience the stories of people living with illness.

Audience members will hear firsthand accounts of what is important to patients throughout their health care experience.

The audience will have the opportunity to engage in open dialogue with our storytellers.

THIS EVENT WILL BE VIDEOTAPED FOR EDUCATIONAL PURPOSES.

THIS EVENT IS FREE AND OPEN TO CAMPUS AND COMMUNITY

THANK YOU TO OUR PARTNERS: Schulich School of Medicine & Dentistry, the Faculty of Arts and Humanities, the London Health Sciences Centre, the London Public Library, the Public Humanities at Western, and the Narrative Medicine Initiative.

This event will take place as part of:
words

THE LITERARY AND CREATIVE ARTS FESTIVAL

All questions can be sent to publichumanities@uwo.ca | Visit us at: uwo.ca/publichumanities

